Drew Fried has been involved in EMS in both the public & private sector since 1978 when he joined the youth squad of his local community EMS agency. Drew continued his EMS career on his college EMS agency, and then as a law enforcement officer / supervisor, working in a number of different assignments. In the private sector Drew worked for a corporate healthcare company specializing in emergency management for the client companies. Presently Drew works in the Healthcare Emergency Preparedness field

What does ICS mean to the responding EMT on their way to an MCI? ICS-100 teaches all about the command structure at the top but very little about what the soldiers in the Medical / EMS Branch need to do when assigned to the causality care group (triage / treatment and transportation). This session will review what you, the medical professional, need to do when confronted with an MCI.
